

As well as making provision for your family in your will, have you thought of leaving something to a worthwhile charity? If so, read on Community Wise is not a well-known national good cause and is unlikely to be the first name that comes into your mind when you are thinking of making a will. However, there are some very good reasons for leaving a legacy to a very local charity – like Community Wise

- A small amount of money makes a large difference
- It is invested into your own local community
- It helps to ensure that future generations benefit from community facilities and community life
- It enables tangible improvements to premises which need to be made, such as landscaping the back playground, resurfacing it and bringing it into full community use
- It means that a noticeable difference can be made to individual's lives as they make new friends and enjoy recreational and social activities
- It means that everyone benefits, not just one section of the community
- It's a way of saying 'thank you' for the times you have enjoyed here, if you are one of our many regulars ...
- A few well known national charities receive nearly all the legacy income, while small ones, like Community Wise, receive none at all ..

It's very easy – turn overleaf to find out how

LEAVING A LEGACY TO COMMUNITY WISE

Having made all the necessary provisions for family and friends, you may wish to make a donation from your estate to Community Wise. Legacies are an important part of charity income. Any legacy made to Community Wise is wholly exempt from tax.

There are three different ways you can make a legacy, they are described below, with the appropriate wording:

1. A RESIDUARY BEQUEST

You may wish to leave specific sums and properties to a named person or persons, and the rest of your estate, or a fraction thereof, to Community Wise.

The recommended wording for such a bequest is:

I GIVE the residue of my estate to Community Wise of Ocklynge Road, Eastbourne, East Sussex, BN21 1PY (Charity Number 1082841) for its charitable purposes. I further direct that the receipt of the Honorary Treasurer or other proper officer of Community Wise for the time being shall be a full and sufficient discharge for the said legacy.

2. A BEQUEST OF A FIXED SUM

You may wish to leave a specific sum of money to Community Wise.

The recommended wording for such a bequest is:

I GIVE the sum of £..... to Community Wise of Ocklynge Road, Eastbourne, East Sussex, BN21 1PY (Charity Number 1082841) for its charitable purposes. I further direct that the receipt of the Honorary Treasurer or other proper officer of Community Wise shall be a full and sufficient discharge for the said legacy.

3. ADDING A CODICIL TO AN EXISTING WILL

If you already have a will, you may wish to add a bequest to Community Wise.

To do this, fill in the attached form and send it to your solicitor/executor.
